Daniel Iacofano, Ph.D., FAICP, ASLA
Principal, Moore Iacofano Goltsman, Inc.

Daniel is a founding principal of Moore Iacofano Goltsman, Inc. (MIG). He has over 25 years of experience in urban planning and community design, specifically for downtowns, transit-oriented development, neighborhoods and urban centers. He is internationally recognized as an expert and innovator in the areas of community participation, consensus building and facilitation. He has consulted with over 100 cities in the development of strategic plans, and has led hundreds of successful public involvement programs with communities, business leaders and staff to support land use, economic revitalization and transportation projects. He is a highly skilled facilitator and is often asked to lead difficult and complex negotiations involving major planning and development projects.

Daniel has worked in a wide range of communities, from Downtown Los Angeles and Downtown Denver to Anchorage and Washington, D.C. In Denver, he received the Merit Award, Downtown Denver Area Plan, from the International Downtown Association in 2008. Daniel received his Ph.D in Environmental Planning from the University of California, Berkley. He is the author of several books including Meeting of the Minds and The Inclusive City.

The Historic Gateway Neighborhood, the Historic Warehouse District and PlayhouseSquare annually bring excellent speakers to the attention of the public through their Annual Historic Downtown Cleveland Luncheon Forum. Previous speakers have included Honorable Joseph P. Riley, Jr., Mayor, Charleston, South Carolina; Thomas Hylton, Pulitzer Prize-Winning Journalist; Ed McMahon, Senior Resident Fellow, Urban Land Institute; Senator J. Kirk Schuring, State of Ohio Senate District 29 and Christopher B. Leinberger, Visiting Fellow, Brookings Institute. The host organizations are delighted to bring Daniel Iacofano to Cleveland for this year's Luncheon Forum.
